Reminder: Meter impressions as a method of payment for parcels will no longer be accepted after March 31, 2017

Dear Customer:

On January 11, 2016, Canada Post introduced a new method of payment for postage meter users called Supplier Account. With this new way to pay for your parcels using an electronic shipping tool and barcoded labels, you will be able to access all the benefits listed below and be prepared in advance of March 31, 2017, when meter impressions will no longer be acceptable as a method of payment for parcels.

Make the switch now and realize the following benefits:

- Access to your commercial prices
- No need to print and apply meter impressions on parcels
- Track and reconcile your shipping activity from one account with the meter supplier
- Continue to leverage your meter supplier relationship, support and benefits

We encourage you to switch to one of the following online parcel shipping applications and start using Supplier Account as soon as possible, if you have not done so already.

- Canada Post's Electronic Shipping Tools (EST) available at canadapost.ca/est. For your convenience, with EST, you can also pay for your parcels using a credit card or a Canada Post commercial account (conditions apply).
- Meter Supplier Electronic shipping platform offered by your postage meter supplier. For this option, contact your meter supplier for set-up.

Avoid having your parcels returned

If you continue to apply meter impressions on your parcels after March 31, 2017, your parcels may not be accepted or may be returned to you (charges may apply).

If you have already fully converted to a method of payment other than meter impressions, please accept our thanks and disregard this letter.

For more details on Supplier Account, visit canadapost.ca/supplieraccount.

Thank you for choosing Canada Post as your delivery partner. If you have any questions, please contact your meter supplier or Canada Post's Commercial Service Network at 1-866-757-5480.

Sincerely,

Serge Pitre
Vice-President, Sales
